Published by the City of Knoxville's Office of Neighborhoods to report news important to Knoxville's residential neighborhoods.

1. South Haven Schedules Elections

The South Haven Neighborhood Association will hold its annual elections for the board and officers at 10 a.m. Saturday, June 15, at Hillcrest United Methodist Church, 1615 Price Avenue.

Scott Romines is facilitating the nominations/elections process for SHNA again this year. Nominations can be conveyed to him at scott@delta-group.com or by telephone at 310-3182. Nominations can also be made from the floor at the meeting.

2. Mayor Brown Invites Neighborhoods, Residents to Sixth District Meeting

Sixth District Councilman and Former Mayor Daniel Brown is hosting a meeting of residents, neighborhood leaders and others in the sixth Councilman district starting at 6 p.m. Thursday, June 20, at the CAC/Luke Ross building, 2247 Western Avenue. Everyone in the Sixth District is urged to attend and bring your concerns and issues for discussion.

3. Artists, Volunteers to Begin Mural Project Saturday

Artists and volunteers from the Parkridge neighborhood and the Community Design Center (CDC) will begin work this Saturday on a four-panel mural on sections of the concrete wall that supports the I-40 bridge over Sixth Avenue.

Work is expected to continue on the mural for the next several Saturdays. This Saturday's work will largely consist of priming the four panels. One section will be emblazoned with the words "Knoxville Tn," and the other three will spotlight the surrounding Parkridge, Fourth and Gill, and Old North neighborhoods. Local artist Per-Ole Lind submitted the winning design in a competition conducted earlier this year.

This work required and received the approval of the City of Knoxville and the Tennessee Department of Transportation. The project is partly funded through a challenge grant from the City's Parks and Recreation Department.

CDC submitted the grant application last fall in cooperation with a committee composed mostly of Parkridge residents. "The Sixth Avenue underpass currently is an ugly, unfriendly, and littered place that attracts graffiti and illegal trash dumping," stated the grant application. "It is a classic example of urban blight." Thus the primary purpose of the project was to beautify the underpass and the First Creek Greenway that passes through it.

The total estimated cost at the time of the grant application was $5,495, less than half of which came from the Challenge Grant program.

Sixth Avenue between East Glenwood Avenue and Washington Avenue will be closed during the mural work.

4. Public Meeting to Explore Future of Lakeshore Park

The City of Knoxville and the board of Lakeshore Park Inc. will conduct a public meeting next week to begin a public process for updating the master plan for Lakeshore Park.

The meeting will begin at 6 p.m. Monday, June 10, in the gymnasium of Sacred Heart Cathedral, 711 Northshore Drive.

Lakeshore Park Inc., a nonprofit with the mission of developing and managing the park on behalf of the City and providing recreational opportunities, will make a presentation, after which Bill Lyons, Deputy to the Mayor and Chief Policy Officer, will lead a public discussion.

"Lakeshore Park is a valuable asset for Knoxville," said Mayor Madeline Rogero. "I encourage everyone to come and participate as we begin to determine the park's development. We are at a critical point in assessing the park's future and want to ensure a solid plan going forward."

"We want Lakeshore Park to be the place where Knoxville goes to play," said Lakeshore Park Board Chair Dee Haslam. "As we move through this process, we hope to hear from people all across the City about what additional uses and improvements they would like to see at the park."

Lakeshore is currently a 110-acre park with a playground, open space, paved greenway trails, six baseball/softball fields and two soccer fields. After the closing of Lakeshore Mental Health Institute, the State of Tennessee announced that an additional 61 acres and buildings would be transferred to the City of Knoxville.

As proposed by Mayor Rogero and adopted recently by City Council, the city's capital projects budget for the 2013-14 fiscal year includes $5.2 million for demolition and improvements on property at Lakeshore.

5. Council, MPC Meet Next Week

Knoxville City Council meets next Tuesday night, and the Metropolitan Planning Commission meets on Thursday afternoon. The agendas for both bodies include items that may be of interest to some Knoxville neighborhoods.

Council meets every two weeks, MPC on second Thursdays of each month. Neighborhood leaders are advised to review agendas as soon as they are available, to find out if a pending item might affect their neighborhoods. Typically, neighborhoods pay the most attention to rezonings and uses on review, which originate with MPC but end up at Council automatically or on appeal.

The Council agenda is always available on the Friday before the Tuesday meeting. See <http://www.cityofknoxville.org/citycouncil>.

Visit <http://agenda.knoxmpc.org> for the MPC agenda. You can be notified by email when MPC's preliminary and final agendas are available, along with other information. See MPC's main web page (<http://www.knoxmpc.org/>) and see "Keep up with MPC..." in the middle column.

See the calendar below for meeting details.

6. Knoxville Neighborhoods: Speak up for the Future

The five-county planning effort known as PlanET has embarked on a fourth round of community input, and is asking Knoxville's neighborhoods to participate once again.

Through June 28, community members are asked to evaluate a set of eight goals and accompanying objectives that will serve as the framework for the development of an action strategy. This strategy, in turn, will provide a guide for individual communities—and the region as a whole—to achieve the community's vision for itself by 2040.

Over the last 18 months, PlanET has asked residents to share their hopes for East Tennessee. By any measure, the efforts have been successful: Nearly 6,000 people have helped shape a vision for the future of the region.

Four central themes emerged from this community-wide conversation: 1) build strong towns, 2) grow quality places, 3) improve the health of people and places, and 4) expand choices for all.

Now PlanET is asking community members to contribute their thoughts on the best approaches to help the region turn this vision into reality.

First, everyone is asked to rank the most important five out of eight goals identified in earlier input sessions. These goals have to do with efficient infrastructure, healthy people, regional prosperity, creating great places, housing choices, transportation choices, clean air and water, and local food production.

Then, participants will be asked to select the most important objectives for achieving each goal.

PlanET is providing two ways for input:

 Participate online using a community input tool. Visit <http://www.planeasttn.org>. Find the “Framework for Action” section, and click on the correct link for your device (tablet, desktop or laptop). A welcome page will load. To proceed, click on the vertical bars on the right hand side of the page, starting with “Rank Goals.”

 Neighborhood associations, civic organization, and other groups can hold a “Meeting in a Box” at a time and location of their choice and with or without a PlanET facilitator. Find out how on the web site, or contact PlanET Outreach Coordinator Sherith Colverson at sherith.colverson@planeasttn.org, or 215-4396 to schedule a Meeting in a Box or to ask questions about how to use the online community input tool as a group.

7. CAC Taking Applications for Community Leadership Class

The Community Action Committee (CAC) is seeking applicants for its twenty-seventh Community Leadership class.

CAC is offering free leadership training to 30 current and emerging leaders who live, work or volunteer in low-to-moderate income neighborhoods and groups.

The program aims to 1) strengthen the capacity for leadership at the grassroots level, 2) create a learning atmosphere that crosses economic, social, racial and demographic lines, 3) acquaint participants with formal and informal decision-making channels, and 4) challenge and motivate participants to become more involved in community affairs.

Those selected will be asked to commit one day a month to the training program. Trainings are held on the first Tuesday of each month, beginning in September of 2013 and continuing through June of 2014.

Each month, attendees will learn about a different topic. On Social Issues Day, for example, class members will learn about issues affecting our community, such as mental illness, lack of affordable housing, domestic violence, child abuse, sexual assault, street violence, and drug and alcohol addiction. Attendees will also discuss how these issues relate to the goal of self-sufficiency, and what community resources are available to address them.

Other sessions focus on local government, education, neighborhood issues, the local economy, media, and CAC’s services.

Any individual may apply or nominate someone else. Applications are available at CAC Neighborhood Centers and the CAC Central Office located at 2247 Western Ave. Applications can also be received by emailing communityleadership@knoxcac.org. The application deadline is Friday, August 9. For additional information, contact Lori Galbraith at 546-3500 or 776-0094.

8. Recycling Center Moves in Bearden

The City of Knoxville recycling center in the parking lot at the Bearden Kroger store, 4918 Kingston Pike, will close today to make way for a Kroger gas station.

Goodwill Industries will open a new recycling center on Monday, June 10, at 5307 Kingston Pike, about a half-mile west.

Area residents can also use the recycling centers at the Kroger stores at 341 Park Village Road, off Cedar Bluff Road, or the I-640 Plaza, 4440 Western Ave.

9. Get Rid of Your Unwanted, Out-of-Date Medicines --- Safely

The City of Knoxville and other members of the East Tennessee Regional Medication Collection Coalition will be on hand to collect and properly dispose of unwanted medicines Saturday, June 8 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Fort Sanders West. Any empty plastic and paper medicine containers will be recycled if left with event organizers.

At all other times, Knox County residents can bring old or unused medicines to the Knoxville Police Department Safety Building at 800 Howard Baker Jr. Ave. The Safety Building is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Disposing of medicines in this fashion is important to maintain the quality of our water. Medicines flushed through the sewage system or dumped on the ground end up in waterways. Trace amounts of pharmaceuticals have been discovered in the drinking water of some cities across the country.

10. City Highlights KPD's Parks and Greenways Patrol Unit

The City of Knoxville this week marked the one-year anniversary of the creation of the Police Department's Parks and Greenways Patrol Unit, which consists of nine officers, led by Sgt. Sammy Shaffer, who patrol 128 park and greenway locations within city limits.

Often patrolling on bicycle through the greenways, these officers are able to reach areas within the City park system that could not be reached by police vehicle.

"This is a proactive effort by Chief Rausch and his staff," said Mayor Madeline Rogero. "This patrol unit ensures that with our 85-mile trail system and over 2,000 acres of park space, we have the ability to respond to emergencies even on remote trails."

Duties of the unit will include enforcing park and greenway rules and City ordinances, assisting injured park users, responding to neighbors' complaints, reporting safety issues for needed repairs, helping greenway users with information, and even removing graffiti with recycled paint. During the past year, the officers have conducted more than 4,400 patrols of City parks and greenways.

To report a nonemergency issue at a park or greenway, please call 311. For a full list of parks and greenways, please visit <http://www.cityofknoxville.org/recreation>.

11. Neighborhood and Government Calendar

Include your neighborhood-related event or meeting in this space. Call 215-3232.

All government meetings will be held in either the Large or Small Assembly Room unless otherwise noted. For a complete list of meetings of various city boards and commissions, visit <http://www.cityofknoxville.org/calendar/>.

If you are a person with a disability who requires an accommodation in order to attend a public meeting, please contact Stephanie Brewer Cook at 215-2034 or scook@cityofknoxville.org no less than 48 hours prior to the meeting you wish to attend.
